Dear Murray;

Hazel tells me you had an autograph party--she didn't know in time either. I called some of the "girls" and they were as surprised as I. Which just proves writers don't read newspapers. Anyway we're all sick about missing out on it. Since we'll all buy the book we would have enjoyed swelling the ranks of your fans that day.

I understand Ed Abbott gave your "Columbia" an excellent send off. And Pat tells me Lucile Mac Donald is impressed with it and expects to give it a good review in the "Times".

But I'm sorry, Murray, to have missed out on your "party." Hope to see you soon.

Cordially,

Mary Boze

P.S. I suppose you know Pat's Eliza was sold to Irene Dunne. For a mere "pittance" she says. Sounds good whatever its for; don't you think?
