

I also wanted to tell you about Granddaughter Lael's job. She took her degree two weeks ago, Marine biology major, and has been hired as an observer on a fishing boat (Japanese, Soviet, Korean, Taiwanese, or German.) She starts 2½ weeks training Sept. 4. I have a copy of the program and it scares me a little, especially the warning that "working aboard a large fishing vessel is potentially hazardous." Of course Lael and Jim are delighted. Liane and I, and even Hollie tend to be secretly a trifle nervous. Although she is a remarkably responsible girl, says her grandmother Hazel. The sheets warn that she may be the only female aboard and that she must be willing to "learn to communicate with work with, and live with sailors who speak no English."

Rick Anderson plans to contact you about coming to speak to the AIHS again, if you will, maybe, after your autograph parties and all that lets up for a bit.

The Island fair is coming up in late September. Roger has his calliope back in shape and will also play one of his own compositions on the piano. He will be restoring another little grand soon and hopes to have that in shape to take to the clubhouse for his performance. He has his big organ set up in the end of the chicken house "music room" and ready for wiring and has the blower and motor renovated.

We're getting a lot of people over here now, with appalling waiting lines to go back on Sundays. So you will want to come on foot when you come. I will provide my chariot. She turned 22 in April but runs well.

Love and congratulations on all counts,

Hazel
